

Revised format for Men's Basketball Season 2006-2007

- Registration opens on a first come, first served basis beginning October 25 with space available for up to 16 teams.
- Only two divisions will be offered for the 2006 – 2007 season. If you were a top team in Division B last season, you should very well expect to move up to Division A to balance out the leagues. Any team playing Division C last season will be in Division B.
- Game nights will be Mondays and Thursdays.
- Mondays will be reserved for Division B.
- Thursdays will be reserved for Division A.
- All teams should expect to play 6:00 games. The early games will be divided evenly amongst all teams.
- The leagues will be balanced. As an example, we would not play with four teams in A and 12 teams in B. Teams will be divided to create the best balance within a league. Given that there will be no C division, Division B will most likely be more "recreational" than it has been in the recent past, but more competitive than C was last year.
- Players are allowed on only one City league team. "A" players will not be allowed in Division B. Should they appear on a Division B roster, they will be dropped from the team.
